

COMMODORE'S MESSAGE

It was quite a jolt to receive a letter from our good editor, this past week, informing me that any item for the December BREEZE must be in his hands by November fifteenth. It was not a case of having given no thought to O. T. Y. C. since the summer season, but, a very definite case of not putting it down in writing. I realized more than ever how late in the season it was when Helen and I went down to Chicago for Riccardo's Frostbite Regatta, for dinghies, yesterday, because this Regatta definitely rings the bell to close the sailing season in this area.

Carolyn is away at school at DePauw, so, of course, her Penguin was not entered this year. But, this is always a very interesting Regatta and I believe that this year, with over 60 boats in the race, they had more competing than in any previous season. Penguins predominate in this dinghy race with, this year, probably 45 out of 60 entries... but there were also Prams, Internationals, Dyers, Goshawks, Lehmans and Columbia Dinghies. So you see, Penguins are not the only dinghies in the pond. However, Penguins DID win all three first places.

The race is held on the Chicago River and the course runs from the Wrigley Building to the Merchandise Mart and back, twice. This gives a racing distance of about three miles and, what with the narrowness of the river and its customary gustiness in the wind department, you are always presented with a good race. This year the race was a little bit late in starting due to the fact that one of the boats capsized in one of the sharp gusts of wind... the Coast Guard boat came to his aid... and because a very large freighter (viewed from a dinghy, it must have been VERY LARGE) took this occasion to come up the river and break up the starting formation.

The winning boat, complete with Skipper and crew, or visa-versa, is always carried by some of the other boats' crews from the river bank to the sidewalk in front of Riccardo's Restaurant for the presentation of the prizes. The party that follows is an item in itself, from the serving of the hot spiced wine out on the sidewalk to the abundant food and entertainment provided inside of the restaurant. The whole affair is "on" Mr. Riccardo.

We can't have a frostbite Regatta at Omena, but, in talking to some of the skippers, I believe we could put on an annual Regatta at O. T. Y. C. that would interest people from the Chicago and Wisconsin area clubs. This is something to keep in mind and look forward to for our grand Club.

The reason back of the success of O. T. Y. C. is that so many members have taken an active interest and worked so hard to make every affair at the Club an important event in itself. This, of course, means that someone must head up each of the committees, and they with the aid of their committee members, carry out their various assignments. The Commodore, as I see it, has as his first important duty of the year the appointing of good committees, so that O. T. Y. C. will be well started off on another splendid year.

You will notice that we have three new committees this year, with Hattie White as Chairman, Finance, with Dave DeVore as Chairman, and New Projects, headed up by Ray Flett. We have some new projects in mind at the present time and I'm sure that more will come up and that we will find it very worth while to have this committee set up. Your Commodore also feels that our financial structure has to be re-examined very carefully. What with the increased costs of doing almost anything, we are going to have to find some new sources of income to carry on as we are doing now, and there are so many things that we need, any one of which will of course cost us money, that we must find means of bringing this money in. And, I believe you will agree, that we have a good committee to handle this matter. In fact, in looking over this list of committees, I'm sure you must agree that everyone is a good one. (See page 4).

Your Commodore looks forward to a very successful year.

George S. Smith, Commodore.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE LOUIS E. ANDERSON.

Funeral services for State Representative Louis E. Anderson were held Saturday, September 11, at the Omena Presbyterian Church. Mr. Anderson was born at Omena, September 18, 1884, attended the Omena district school, Northport high school, Alma College, and the University of Wisconsin. He taught in the Manistique high school for three years and was in business for many years at Northport, serving as Leelanau township supervisor.

A recent letter from May Griffin expresses the feelings of many of his friends, "I am grieved to hear of Louis Anderson's death, altho I realized he has been ill for some time. It will seem strange to walk into the Northport store and not see him."

VENETIAN NIGHT.

The second annual Venetian Night was held Saturday, August 14th, in the full of the moon. There was just enough breeze to make the event safe from hazard, and to operate the windmill atop the Ayars Penguin, which was one of the very effectively and successfully decorated boats. On one side of the float was printed "The Win(d) we lost", and on the other side, "Blow Breeze-Blow".

Sue Barker worked secretly on Paul Bunyan and Babe, the Blue Ox, for days, fastening chicken wire on a wooden frame and pasting paper over this to form the legendary figures. Illuminated by flash lights, this float was very effective.

The Lyon Penguin was appropriately decorated to represent Daniel in the Lyon's Den. Clever lion faces were painted on shaggy straw hats and the lions could be seen poking their heads out of a cave at the rear of the boat. Daniel was standing amidst the shrubbery in front, unafraid and very brave.

The Jackson Whiffenpoof was turned into a tub which symbolized the nursery rhyme "Rub a dub dub, three men in a tub". The Butcher was Jim, the Baker was Eddy Lyon, and the Candle Stick Maker was David, each holding symbols of his profession.

Holly Renz created MAUDE with the aid of Stewart Crampton, and a few suggestions here and there; the effect was faithful, and the float was extremely well done, even to the cow catcher and engineer's bell.

Since Rat Smith was unable to attend, due to illness, her friends cleverly fashioned a "Missing Rat" float. The empty chair, large question marks and detective searching for Rat was humorous and well received.

Marilyn Flett's SHOW BOAT, complete with real smoke and paddle wheels won first mention this year. The miniature Show Boat was quite complete in many details, including the smoke stack.

The Johanning FLYING FISH was very nicely done and one of the floats which seemed to have plenty of action. The audience was enthralled whenever it passed by.

Sue Barker's PAUL BUNYAN won second place honors, and Holly Renz's MAUDE won third place.

Now that we have two successful Venetian Nights behind us, we all look forward to this event in coming years. The new dock and spot lights aided greatly in helping to make this year's show more effective for the spectators.

HOBBY SHOW.

Our first hobby show, August 11, proved a real success; observers were astonished at the excellent response the invitations brought forth, and the very artistic manner of presentation of the twenty-one exhibits.

Commodore Smith displayed a handsome croquet mallet of a rare purple wood from South America, made for Helen, and, of course, his famous map of Omena and environs.

Vida Bennett had a collection of beautiful shells from her winter home in Florida. Her sister, Eva Bauer, chose weaving from among her several hobbies, with an outstanding group of tools and materials.

Mary Foltz brought charming flower arrangements. Lestra Saxton had a table with her most unusual bells. Hazel Taylor, displayed her hand made antique boxes. Mrs. Heidrick had wood carvings from her European travels. Janet Sloniker had a remarkable collection of aromatic herbs from her garden in Cincinnati. Ruth Ayers displayed a place setting of fine old china. Miriam Finn brought vari-colored African violets.

Attracting much attention was a long hall rug, designed by Paul Hill, hooked by Joe Alcorn for his and Millie's private paradise. Unusual copper pieces from Marie Lou Basler's cottage, and lustrous old pewter from the Wheelers' Sunset Lodge were admired. The Heitzman sisters had books and bouquets of wild flowers. Jessie Carmichael arranged a table of Charles' American glass. The Flett father and daughter trio produced wood novelties, painting, knitting and needlework. Mrs. Thearle Smith chose from among her paintings an idealized winter view of Omena, highlighted by one immense perfect rose in a contrasting vase. (She won a national rose prize five years ago).

Hatty Underwood showed ceramics in all stages — it was she who made our Club Ash-trays. Her nephews from California, Gary Canatsey explained his thirty minerals and stones; Kenneth sat beside his crayon drawings. My junk jewelry from foreign parts added color.

Again, I thank my committee, Marilyn Flett, Helen Clark Reed, and Marguerite Rule. Twenty-one members of our ninety and nine leaves seventy-eight to make a success of next summer's hobby show. Get ready now, urges Harriette White.

THE ELECTRIC PARTY.

The idea for the Electric Party came on the way home from Omena after the opening dinner on the Fourth of July. The more we thought about it, the more possibilities seemed to appear.

Members of the Special Events Committee were consulted and Helen Smith wired, "Electric Party sounds fine. Go ahead with plans for red-hot shocking event".

Invitations were prepared in the form of Western Union Wires and distributed to each member of the Club. Members not in Omena were mailed invitations and then the work really began.

The Consumers Power Company of Traverse City gave permission to use Reddy

Kilowatt and supplied numerous items with this happy little fellow displayed on them. Large cut-out images of Reddy, erected on bases so that they stood upright, decorated the tables at the pot-luck dinner immediately preceding the party. The curtain on the stage carried an enlarged Reddy Kilowatt advertising the party. Announcements were given stressing the importance of the party as a means of raising money to help rewire the Club house.

Oyer fifty-dollars worth of door prizes were obtained from local merchants and advertisers in the Club paper. A floor show was prepared which included the following features: (1) The singing of "The Electric Girl" by Leona Milroy, who was dressed as a French Chanteuse, opened the floor show with proper mood music and was given a distinctive and delightful interpretation. (2) The Dance of the Firefly, given by Carol Underwood, accompanied by Harriett White was sparkling, dainty and appropriate to the occasion.

(3) The Fire Dance by Marilee Milroy was an original interpretation which displayed creative talent of unusual quality and will long be remembered by the audience as one of the high-lights of the evening.

(4) The Electro-doodles mistified and amazed many of the group as a number of them had never played the game before. This part of the floor show was conducted in proper "Roger Price" fashion. Prizes for guessing these were various electrical items including electric light bulbs, batteries, flash-lights, and doodle napkins imprinted with original "Roger Price" doodles.

(5) Melvin and Gwen Pike dreamed up a skit portraying life before and after the invention of electricity. They were assisted by veteran actors, Joe and Millie Alcorn, who at the last moment and with very little rehearsal pinch-hit for the Pike's friends who had originally planned to do the skit with them. This delightful skit took one through the week, day by day, showing events as they were done then and now. The number of laughs and applause for this part of the program indicated the approval and appreciation of their efforts.

(6) Janey Basler and her guest assisted in the drawing of the door prizes, and took tickets at the door. The costumes of Janey and her friend were outstanding as they carried out the color scheme of red and white and displayed great originality.

(7) An added feature was the appearance of Mr. Keye, brother of Vernon, who gave his interpretation of "Liberace". His faithful portrayal was one of the high-lights of the evening.

(8) Eben Barker, accompanied with his guitar, sang "Ground Hog", and a group gathered around him to carry on a song period afterwards.

The decorations were effective and centered around a huge canopy of red and white streamers and balloons with Christmas tree light on a web-like framework which was suspended from the beam overhead. This lighted the performers area over the floor which was separated from the cabaret tables surrounding it by a circle of flames which were illuminated with fluorescent paint.

Several pencil and paper games were played during the evening; one entitled The Electric Circuit was used to get acquainted as the guests arrived.

Refreshments were served at the end of the floor show, consisting of ice cream and chocolate chip cookies.

The Electric Party Saturday, August 7, was a memorable day as it netted over $200 for rewiring the O. T. Y. C. clubhouse. Several new electrical outlets have already been installed to assist the pot-luck dinner committees in keeping food hot. Additional electrical work will be completed as the need arises and the existing wiring is to be inspected and modernized. The Special Events Committee wishes to thank the many many members who assisted in planning and decorating, and those who participated in the floor show, and especially all who contributed financially to the fund for rewiring the clubhouse.

NEWS ABOUT MEMBERS.

Leona Milroy spent part of November in Kansas City where she accompanied her husband who is trying a case for the Santa Fe Railroad. She was thrilled to meet Mr. Nathaniel Leverone, the President of the "Alliance Francaise", a French Club in Chicago, in which she is active. He and three other men bought the Athletics baseball team and have appointed Lou Bandreau, Leona's cousin, as manager. There followed a gay time spent in celebrating the occasion. Leona is looking forward to the opening game.

Marjorie Renz writes that they had a lovely trip once they were on their way. They visited Havana and Nassau. Hurricane Hazel delayed them as it came through Morehead City just before they were to sail. After returning to Cincinnati, Marjorie received word that her brother-in-law was very ill, so she packed up and left for Washington, D. C., where she stayed for about ten days. After again returning home they took another trip East to look at colleges for Holly. Marjorie figures that she has gone close to 5,900 miles in three weeks.

Norma Johanning has teamed up with Ray Flett to design and build the Trophy Case in the lobby of the Club House. They expect to get started early this Spring and probably will have it finished by the time most of the rest of us get to Omena. We will have to have a dedication ceremony at the Opening Dinner of the Club. We all know that Norm and Ray will do a wonderful job as they are both unusually talented workmen in their shops. Here will be a lasting testament to their hobby, and we hope that next year's show directs attention to this feature of our lobby. The Club should reward their generosity in giving the time for this improvement by engraving a suitable plaque with their names and the date of construction on it.

RACE RESULTS.

This year's racing has shown remarkable improvement in the skill of our skippers and crew of the Penguin Fleet. Results this year show the following three with the highest number of points:

	Total Points
Mary Helen Ayars First	38,828
Sue Barker Second	38,652
Margie Lyon Third	35,338

We are proud of our Margie and want to congratulate her on her wonderful progress this past summer.

Other awards were:

The Charter Day Trophy for first race of the season (the old jug) won by Sue Barker.

The Sportsmanship Award (Jeanne Marie) donated by Hazel Taylor as a traveling trophy — won by Rat Smith.

In the Lightning Class, First place was the permanent trophy donated by Paul Hill to Dr. Carl Wagner.

Venetian Night Award (traveling and donated by Hazel Taylor) given to Marilyn Flett and Sue Barker, with commendations for their helpers Janet Sloniker (Flett), and Betsy Hill (Barker).

NANCY JO WHEELER WED.

Nancy Jo Wheeler was married Saturday, October 16, in Omena Presbyterian church to John Anthony Kohlberg of Cranston, R. I. Dr. Earl V. Moore played the organ selections at the 4 o'clock ceremony which was opened by the ringing of the church bell. The church was decorated with gay fall leaves, pine boughs and flowers from the gardens of Mrs. Frank Wick and Mrs. Thearl Smith, by Mrs. Lestra Saxton and Mrs. Ben Foltz.

A reception at Sunset Lodge followed the ceremony where Mrs. Hector Carmichael and Mrs. William Feely were co-hostesses. Piano music was furnished by Mrs. Crampton Finn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kohlberg after a honeymoon trip through Canada and the New England States will reside at 1114 Sheridan Road in Glencoe, Illinois.

MARIANNE SCHAEFER IS BRIDE

In Heirloom Wedding Gown.

Saturday afternoon, August 28, 1954, at 4 o'clock Marianne Doris Schaefer became the bride of Thomas Ward Donohue. A large reception at the Youngstown Country Club followed this ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church. The honeymoon trip was to Irvington, Va., colonial Williamsburg in Virginia, and Washington, D. C. The bride and groom now are at home at 1062 Cove Avenue, Lakewood, Ohio. O. T. Y. C. members present at the wedding included Ben and Mary Foltz and Leona Milroy.

NEED FOR LIBRARIAN.

This is now the seventh year that the BREEZE has been published regularly twice a year. It has become a means of recording the activities of the Club, and as soon as the early history of the O. T. Y. C. is compiled, will constitute the official written records. Insert page of this issue reprints the Articles of Incorporation and By-Laws revised and brought up to date.

There is need to have appointed by the Commodore a KEEPER OF RECORDS and/or LIBRARIAN. There is also a need for the Club to have a steel filing cabinet to keep these records in. Each time the BREEZE is published, 200 copies are printed. Of these 200 copies, 100 are mailed to members and advertisers. The balance are used for various purposes. The editor uses several copies in building up and preparing each new issue. When pasting up the "dummy" for the printer, some of the items, especially the ads of our advertisers, can be clipped from an old issue and spotted in the new issue to show the printer how he wants the current paper to appear.

Frequently members lose or misplace former issues and would like to have a source for procuring a duplicate copy. If we had a filing cabinet where these could be kept, and someone to supervise and care for it, the records and copies of the BREEZE would have an orderly place to be taken care of. The editor has these stored partly in Grosse Pointe and partly in Omena. Anyone who has suggestions about taking care of the records of the Club should get in touch with the editor and these will be carefully considered and appreciated.

NEWS ABOUT MEMBERS.

"We had a fine trip to Colorado", writes Gwen Pike. "Dr. Pike and Judy took pictures while I attended a Workshop held at the University of Colorado at Boulder — by the National Association of Teachers of Singing. We came home via the the Black Hills and Badlands. Saw lots of scenery, but I prefer our own Michigan variety".

"In Sept., Melvin and I attended a week's medical convention in New York City. Saw several shows and had a right good time. Carol is having an interesting time in Kaiserslautern, Germany. She says the conveniences of the U. S. will look mighty good to her next Spring when she returns".

"We are going to T. C. this week end for the Midland-T. C. High School football game. Judy's friend, Ralph Allswede is "star guard". We'll stay the week-end at Omena".

Edith Andrew writes that she and husband Charles will be spending their 40th summer in Omena next year.

Stewart and Ruth Ayars drove to Grandville, Ohio, to see Mary Helen this fall. The fall coloring was beautiful but nothing compares to Omena.

Andy and Marjorie Renz took a Bermuda cruise when Dr. Renz attended a medical convention which engaged the boat as their meeting place instead of a city hotel. Holly accompanied them.

Mrs. Edith Heidrick is on an extended visit with an old friend of many years in New York state.

May Griffin writes that she has taken a new lease on life since receiving letters from her many Omena friends. It seems that in 1913 the Newmans rented what is now the Halbert White cottage on Omena Bay. At that time it was owned by Mr. John R. Santo of Traverse City. She says they are planning to be in Omena next summer and open their home.

Stella is coming along nicely after almost a year of torture. She and Stella are living at the Miramer Hotel, in Montecello again. "Be'ng here a year, I registered, and voted on Tuesday", said May. "Our best wishes to all".

Bernice Johanning has been busy following the Earlham Field Hockey this Fall, while Norm followed the Notre Dame Football team around this part of the country.

Marilee Milroy is attending Mundelein Colluege where she is majoring in speech. They had their first play last week. Marilee expects to be home for Thanksgiving.

THE COMMODORE'S BALL.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. Renz, this year, as always, the Commodore's Ball was the crowning glory to our Yacht Club year. It was well attended, and everyone seemed to enjoy the dance.

Decorations were in keeping with the nautical theme of a Commodore's Ball, and needless to say, it would have been impossible to decorate our Clubhouse without the enthusiastic and willing help of the younger crowd, who turned out in full force for this job. For those of you who were not there, we copied the colors of the Yacht Club ash tray, and tried to use only white, blue and yellow decorations.

The orchestra was the finest that we ever had, and I understand that they have been invited to come back again next year.

The refreshments consisted of all soft drinks, lemonade and orangeade. The lemonade seemed to be a favorite as we had to send an S. O. S. to Mr. Barth half way through, and obtain more. Potato chips and pretzels were also served.

The presentation of awards was made with the usual hum of excitement, and the final award, the most coveted, for good sportsmanship, was given to Carolyn Smith.

The Bunny Hop and the Charleston seemed to be the favorite dances of the evening. The orchestra was induced to stay a half hour overtime this year, so you know that the evening was a big success. Thanks again to Mrs. Renz and all who worked with her.

COLLEGE CHATTER

By Mary Helen Ayars

Initiation into the "Rah Rah" spirit of campus life finds recent Kollege Kids a little bewildered and starry-eyed. Rat likes DePauw — a "real" lot; — She was nominated for dorm president but missed it by a very small margin.

Linda Johanning was down to Denison with the hockey team recently, but unfortunately I wasn't able to get in touch with her.

Margy Lyon has pledged Chi Omega at Northwestern.

Sue Barker has driver over from Ohio Wesleyan a couple of times. She has joined the sailing club at Wesleyan.

I joined the sailing club here and they almost turned handsprings when they found out that I had sailed Penguins. They immediately signed me up for sailing in a regatta about three weeks ago, but after that I heard nothing more about it. I have pledged Kappa Alpha Theta and am also dorm president.

I was surprised to run into a girl from Grosse Pointe here. She was in Mr. Jackson's typing class last summer and had typed some of the telegram invitations to the Electric Party. Small world!!

Received a letter from Holly Renz the other day, and from all places, Havana, Cuba. She seemed to be having a great time.

Heard by the grape vine that Jim Jackson was chosen to be photographed as a typical "frosh" at Michigan State and had his pictures in the Michigan State News on a spread page the first week at East Lansing. He is in Naval R. O. T. C. with complete uniform and all. Jim has also joined a small dance orchestra and rehearses once a week. Playing chess and working on radio broadcasting and recordings are among Jim's hobbies at the moment.

Margy Lyon is planning to fly home for Thanksgiving. She wrote that her Dad and Mother visited her the first of October when Dr. Lyon attended a medical convention in Chi. Margy also told of having dinner with the Ayars.

School is really great. I never realized how much fun it could be. We really work during the week and on the week-ends we have a continuous ball! I suppose we'll all settle down once the first set of grades come out. It sure is hard though.

Sabra Saxton is in her fourth year of nurses training. It is Bob Saxton's fourth year in Western Reserve Medical School, and he is now trying to decide where to have his internship.

Pat Wickemeyer pledged Sigma Nu at Depauw University.

Pete Wickemeyer is a Senior at Purdue, is a Phi Kappa Psi and was just pledged to Pi Tau Sigma, National Mechanical Engineering honorary. Pete received the only "Distinguished Military Student Award" in the Ordinance Department and was selected one of the six Cadet Lt. Colonels. This summer he received the medal for the Outstanding Cadet at Aberdeen Proving Ground. Pete expects to go directly into the service when he graduates in June and is looking forward to getting "Foreign Duty".

Bill Renz was home for Thanksgiving, and Rat Smith spent Saturday and Sunday in Cincinnati.

During the week-end of November 13 about 150 hockey players were in Earlham College for the Irish Ladies Hockey Union. Linda and Mona Johanning were on the Earlham College Coed Hockey Team. Earlham was undefeated in inter-collegiate play, having won all games except one tie. Linda was selected to play on the Great Lakes II team for the second year. Mona plays left wing on the Earlham team, and although the Irish Touring Team had exceptional athletes and great ability, she outran and evaded three of their defensive players and got the ball into the "Striking Circle".

CLUB IMPROVEMENTS.

TROPHY CASE: It would seem that the time has come to take some definite action regarding a suitable trophy case. There is the possibility that it could be recessed in the wall of the front entry so that a table could be placed in front of it as at present. The depth of the case would need be only 8 to 10 inches, and doors opening from the back could be locked securely. Some of the men of the Club, who have the knack and tools for doing craft work could easily construct this for the Club. I feel sure the Club would buy the materials. How about it? Any offers or volunteers to do the job?
